9th Annual 'Valley Made' Manufacturing Summit Unites Industry Leaders to Drive Central Valley Innovation

Matt Poepsel, PhD, author and podcast host from Massachusetts is the Summit's keynote speaker at which more than 900 attendees are expected to attend

Fresno, California October 29, 2024 The San Joaquin Valley Manufacturing Alliance's (SJVMA) 9th Annual "Valley Made" Manufacturing Summit takes place on Wednesday, October 30, 2024, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Fresno Convention Center Exhibit Hall.

The San Joaquin Manufacturing Alliance (SJVMA), the host of "Valley Made" Manufacturing Summit, is thrilled to feature this year's keynote speaker, Dr. Matt Poepsel, PhD, author of Expand the Circle: Enlightened Leadership for Our New World of Work and host of the Lead the People podcast. He serves as Vice President & Godfather of Talent Optimization at The Predictive Index. He holds a PhD in Psychology, an MBA, and a Harvard Business School Certificate of Management Excellence. Matt is a part-time faculty member at Boston College where he teaches graduate courses in the areas of leadership, human resources, and business spirituality. He's a U.S. Marine, an Ironman triathlon finisher, and a student of Buddhist philosophy. Matt and his bride (also a Marine) live on Cape Cod, Massachusetts where they raised their three beach-loving children.

In his inspiring keynote session, "Optimal Output: Uniting Production, People, and Potential," he will share the most common reasons manufacturers fail to realize their full potential and the shifts in mindset and execution required to unlock higher levels of value creation. Participants will have the opportunity to walk away with fresh ideas and tangible actions they can immediately implement.

"I am absolutely thrilled to be the keynote speaker at the 9th Annual SJVMA Valley Made Manufacturing Summit," said Matt Poepsel. "It is an extraordinary honor to join a community where the human element is at the forefront of creating better working environments. I eagerly anticipate celebrating our shared commitment to excellence and exploring how we can further enhance the quality of life within organizations across the Central Valley."

"Having Matt Poepsel as this year's keynote speaker is a monumental event. His insights and expertise are set to highlight the importance of fostering a people-centric approach in creating better working environments within our organizations. The Central Valley stands to gain invaluable knowledge and inspiration, propelling our manufacturing community to new heights," shares Genelle Taylor Kumpe, CEO of SJVMA and the Fresno Business Council (FBC).

The manufacturing summit is designed as a workshop and resource expo that celebrates the Valley's history of innovation in manufacturing while providing resources and networking opportunities that continue to build a well-trained, outstanding workforce. At its core, the summit promotes cross-sector collaboration aimed at creating a globally competitive environment for the Valley's manufacturing industry. Employers who are exhibiting or sponsoring the day of the event are invited to participate in the concurrent job fair which is open to the public for those seeking jobs in the industry.

Officials are expecting more than 900 manufacturing industry attendees including CEOs, technology management, human resources directors, industry service providers and Career Technical Education partners. More information about the summit can be found at sjvma.org/summit.
